In conversation with Ambassador afternoon March 29, Minister to Presidency Carlos Flores outlined his thinking concerning next steps with regard to Honduran peace initiative. Flores said Honduran delegations to other Latin countries had received very favorable reactions to their plan. Venezuela had offered "unconditional support"; Panama had been "positive"; and Mexico had received proposal "warmly". Lopez Portillo apparently said that Honduran proposal "complements" the Mexican one.

3. Flores said he thought next step should be in the form of an OAS resolution embodying Honduran plan. Thinking out loud, he wondered if Venezuela wouldn't be the ideal sponsor. Discreet U.S. support would be welcome. Ambassador speculated that Washington reaction to Flores' idea would be to ask if GOH had considered possibility of CADC sponsoring such resolution. This suggestion met with resistance on Flores' part; but he was not adverse to thought that CADC countries should coordinate on draft text of any resolution beforehand.
