UNCLASSIFIED

TELECON

Ambassador Dobrynin/Secretary Kissinger

December 9, 1975

Time: 6:06 p.m.

D: Hello.

RELEASED IN FULL

SH18

- K: Anatol, one point.
- D: You have changed your mind?
- K: No, I think it will turn out in our interest.
- D: I think it is much better. In the final analysis it will be better.
- K: In the sense well to arrive in Moscow without having a chance to study our views is rough on Brezhnev. It is easier on Gromyko because he knows the subject so well.
- G: (Laughter)
- K: I want to talk to you about the signal. We can't wait until I get there.
- D: What signal?
- K: That beam you are beaming into our Embassy in Moscow.
- D: I have asked them...
- K: See whether you can get me a reply within a few days.
- D: I will try to do my best.
- K: Maybe you could turn it off until I get there.
- D: And then you could switch it on again.
- K: You could give me a radiation treatment.
- D: Than you will be radioactive. Once again I could send another today.
- K: We really are sitting on it here but too many people know about it. We will catch hell unless we can say something is happening.
- D: Your reports from Moscow say it is continued?
- K: Should we check?
- D: Maybe it is helpful.
- K: We will check.
- D: You are leaving tomorrow?

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF STATE REVIEW AUTHORITY: ROBERT L. FUNSETH DATE/CASE ID: 24 APR 2003 200102979

- K: When you put a bulb into the Ambassador's room it starts glowing when it isn't in a socket — does that mean anything?
- D: Nevertheless you check with your Embassy.
- K: Let me check and I will let you know.
- D: 0.K.